QUIHI NOTES.

The Luther League program last Sunday night in Bethlehem Lutheran church was excellent in every particular. There were quite a number of very interesting musical and literary numbers on the program and all were rendered in a most creditable manner. The appreciative audience was much larger than the seating capacity of the church, but by means of the open doors and windows, managed to hear and enjoy the best numbers on the program. Mrs. Henry Schuehle presided at the organ and rendered some excellent help. A number of welcome visitors from New Fountain, Castroville and other points were present and greatly enjoyed the program.

Regular divine service will be held in the Quihi Lutheran church next Sunday at 10:30 o'clock, A.M. All are welcome at this and all services in this church.

The Bethlehem Lutheran Sunday school and Bible class will meet Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. All the boys and girls of this community, as well as the men and women, are kindly invited to join the Sunday school or the Bible class.

Preparations for the announced bazaar of the Ladies Aid society at Quihi, Oct. 31st., are under way.

Contributions to this bazaar are being made by members of the church and friends, and a very interesting program is in the making and doubtless will be entertaining and instructive. A number of young Quihi gentlemen and ladies have volunteered to take musical and literary numbers on this program.

At the beautiful home of and Mrs. Ralph Noonan, The afternoon, October 8, a shower given by Mesdames Ralph and Chas. Schuehle and Raymond honoring Miss Bessie Bieber of About 60 guests were present three o'clock the bell was rung and nine tables of "42" were set to see who was the best player. Albrecht winning high score, off as her trophy a beautiful glass perfume bottle. Miss Bieber won low score gave her a sunflower powder.

Four tables of Rook were in an adjoining room. Mrs. Jackson who proved to be the player in this, won a handsome glass flower basket. Mrs. Drotcourt, holding low score received a sunflower powder.

After the prizes were awarded delicious refreshments were served consisting of chicken salad, fruit salad, potato chips iced and coffee. After the guests partaken of all these good things Miss Bieber was escorted by Chas. Johnson to an old oak chair placed in the corner of the reception room, which was tastefully decorated in Holloway's style. Owls, black cats, pumpkins and stalks. Mrs. Johnson then gave a suitable toast to the bride-to-be, had no more than finished when comes Master Martin Noonan, hobgoblin, drawing a big pail, which he had gathered among the corn that surrounded bride-to-be, and placed it at her feet. Just like a woman—full of curiosity—she had to burst it.

She found its seeds to be glass and a number of other beautiful gifts. She had no more completed this examination when comes Mrs. Noonan and Mrs. carrying a huge family wash basket. All the guests were uneasy afraid they were going to turn shower into a laundry from the basket was heaped up—but, the politely took it to Miss Bieber the cozy corner where it was covered and one by one the basket taken out and opened by the bride-to-be. After unwrapping each and expressing her thanks to the donor, she passed them on for further inspection.

BRIDGE CLUB.

Miss Willa Mac Gaines and Mrs.
Charley Johnson were hostesses to the Bridge Club on Wednesday afternoon at the Armstrong Hotel.

Festoon's of black and yellow panels of scarecrows and witches, grinning Jack-O'-Lanterns and lovely yellow cosmos indicated the approach of Hallowe'en.

The guests found their partners by matching huge black owls with hissing yellow cats and, at the conclusion of the games, napkins and table covers of hallowe'en crepe paper and plate favors of yellow baskets surmounted by Jack-o'-lanterns and filled with black and yellow corn were further developments of the color scheme.

Mrs. F. S. Cockrell, as holder of high membership score, was presented with a lovely box of fragrant imported soap in the shape of realistic fruit, and Miss Clara, as low member, with a clever loose-jointed cardboard skeleton. Miss Hattie Stiegler won a similar skeleton and Mrs. W. E. Boulding a fascinating box of candy cigarettes and cigars.

The hostesses, assisted by Miss Mary Isabel Crouch, served fruit salad, sandwiches and hot tea to the following: Mesdames Jack Fergason, F. P. Brewster, F. S. Cockrell, Lou

Entered as second class matter June 24, 1922, at the Postoffice at Hondo, Texas, under Act of March 3, 1879.

HONDO, TEXAS, OCT. 1st, 1925.

In times of stress don't worry; work!

It is a weak cause indeed that can not stand criticism!

Be sure your sin will find you out.
—NUMBERS 32:23.

The tax-paying season is at hand.
Smile, dear you, smile!

Beware of where a precedent would lead you before you follow it!

One evil precedent but pleads The ill to which the next one leads!

We can never enjoy the fruits of tax reduction until we quit chewing the cud of government nourishment!

Texas is again having trouble with the foot and mouth disease in the vicinity of Houston. Heroic measures so far seem to have proven futile in the effort to eradicate the disease and the live-stock industry of the whole state suffers as a consequence.

A pessimistic farmer once, upon being congratulated on his fine crop, drew a long face and moaned: "Yes, but such a crap is a terrible strain on the land!" In view of the short crop this year, many farmers can console themselves that their land has not been strained!

We are a self-righteous bunch of pas and mas who surround our young folks with suggestions and temptations that would have knocked our own moral trolleys clear off the tracks and then bemoan the fact that flappers will flap and jellies wont jell. The place for reform to begin is with oneself.

Indications are that we are going to have a muddier campaign in Texas next year than ever before if such a thing is possible. It looks like the politicians would have learned by this time that lying about Ferguson don't buy them any thing; but like Goldberg's characters, they always come back for more.

Farmers' lives are as broad as the lives of any class of our citizenship.
All matters political, social, moral or religious touch them with as much vital concern as they do any one else. Hence FARMING has no apology for touching every phase of life in the high spots. We ask no one to agree with us; we accord to all the right which we exercise for ourselves—the right to think as we please.

Any man who wants to repeal our primary election law will get our wholehearted support—when he proposes, as a substitute, to outlaw all party or group selection of candidates and make the general election a free for all where the selection is both first and final. But no one will get any encouragement out of us in an effort to revert back to the old convention system; or worse still, turn the appointment of our officials over to some autocratic board. Since when is the whole body of a free people not to be trusted?

Verify there rests upon the souls of our educational leaders a tremendous responsibility.

While zealous religionists have carried their views of God and His plan of salvation to the uttermost parts of the heathen world, our scientists and research workers have undermined the foundations of faith as taught for the past two thousand years and the whole superstructure is tumbling down about the heads of those who are supposed to be its firm adherents.

What profit is there in gaining worldly wisdom and losing heavenly hope?

The present trend means inevitable moral ruin.

Therefore, it is up to modern learning, in all its vaunted pride, to give us a concept of GOD that will satisfy—put something in the place of that of which it has deprived us.

It must do it or in spite of the wisdom and strength of man learning must be its own undoing.

And the race will turn back through a cycle of darkness and ignorance from which it can again emerge anchored to the simple faith that satisfied before we grew too wise to believe.

Verify there rests upon the souls
of our educational leaders a tremendous responsibility!

Who among them shall be the prophet of the new revelation?

Gov. Al. Smith of New York has just added a signal triumph to his other wonderful political achievements. His candidate for mayor of greater New York won in a primary election over the present incumbent, the open opposition of Hearst and his powerful newspapers, and the covert opposition of McAdoo and his backers. Smith continues to be the logical man for the Democratic nomination in 1928, just as he was the logical man before the New York convention fiasco foredoomed the party to its inglorious defeat in 1924.

We have just read that interesting little book, "The Perils of Our Country—What Shall We Do With Them?" by Rev. L. E. Hall of Hattiesberg, Miss., an advertisement of which appears elsewhere in this paper. Rev. Hall finds many perils besetting our country, such as Idleness, Extravagance, Immodesty, Lasciviousness, Lawlessness, Etc., Etc., and without setting out to do so proves beyond a doubt, as this writer has been long convinced, that the underlying cause for it all is Infidelity or a "Weakening of the Faith Element in All Human Affairs." Then he puts his finger on the remedy by quoting Exodus 37:3:
"Trust in the LORD and do good, so shalt thou dwell in the Land and verily thou shalt be fed." Rev.
Hall's little book will do you good.
As he thinketh in his heart!

TO THE RAINDROPS!

By Fletcher Davis.

Here's to you, Raindrops!
As you patter,
As you scatter,
And as you bathe,
While down you rattle,
Merry Raindrops!

How the dry old Earth
Smiles in its glee, Green grass to see,
And the bright flowers
And sylvan bowers!
Merry old Earth!

How the merry birds,
Whom naught can cloy,
Carol with joy
Many glad refrains,
'Cause, forsooth, it rains!
Sweet, pretty birds!

Just see the farmer!
He smiles again,
'Cause of the rain;
Now his crops will grow;
He's happy, you know;
Happy farmer!

So here's to Raindrops!
Raindrops so free,
We all agree,
Make us feel better,
'Cause now it's wetter!
Here's to Raindrops!

Castroville, July 31, 1902.

(A Story.)

By Fletcher Davis.

The last load of corn had been hauled in from the field and pitched into Toby Hicks's crib.

A neighborly exchange of work between himself and Bill Morgan had simplified the matter and facilitated the work.

After the last ear had been pitched into the crib, Toby produced a couple of shallow dishes. Into these he poured a quantity of carbon bisulphide, set them on top of the grain and closed the bin up as nearly air tight as possible.

In twenty-four hours the weevils wont be damaging the grain any more," remarked Toby.

"So that's how you get rid of 'em, is it?" inquired Bill Morgan. "Tell me about it."

"You see this "high life" volatilizes readily," began Toby, by way of explanation. "When it turns to a gas the gas is heavier than the air and sinks into every air space in the crib and smothers the life out of every bug in the building."

"Wont it damage the grain," asked ed Mr. Morgan.

"It has not been found injurious to the grain when used in proportion of one ounce to twelve cubic feet of space and has proven effective in killing the weevils."

"Of course, if the weather continues warm long they may get back in the corn and cause more trouble, but if they do I shall dope 'em again."

And Toby ended this last remark with an emphasis that gave an index to a sturdy character that is not easily discouraged.

Bill Morgan could not help a feeling of admiration for his sturdy young neighbor. He could not help but reflect in his own mind that it was this sturdy spirit of never giving up but meeting each emergency with new endeavor that had brought Toby through tribulations before which less stalwart spirits would have quailed and given up in dis-pair.

Bill Morgan was not learned in the schools of philosophy. He would not have known an induction from a deduction. But close observation and a keen mother wit had taught him that any man, be he farmer or follower of some other calling, possessed with the elements of character that refuses to be discouraged by difficulties but has the will to find a way to overcome them is richly endowed with the first essentials of ultimate success.

"Do you know that you have a crib full of fine seed corn there, Toby?" asked Mr. Morgan, as they turned away from the now tightly closed crib.

"Watch out that you don't let some smooth fellow from the city buy you out at feed corn prices.
When down at Creedville the other day, I heard a scout for a big seed house inquiring where he could buy some pure white corn. He'd be mighty tickled to get yours."

"Oh, I will need all of mine to feed myself, and besides I would rather let my neighbors have what I can spare for seed than to sell it out of the community. You know," went on Toby, "the best seed corn —or any other seeds, for that matter—for one to plant are the ones that have been grown and improved right in the neighborhood, under the same soil and climatic conditions. If the people of an entire community or section would find out the best varieties for their section and all grow that one variety and all try to improve it they would soon make their community famous for its improved seed."

"Why don't you tell Bill, Sharp that and get him to have all his tenants around these parts do that?" asked Bill Morgan with animation. "see where it would mean big money for him."

"I tried to interest him, but he don't know any thing about farming—except to get all he can skin out of his land and his hands," Toby added, somewhat bitterly.

"But he is for any thing that will help him get more and get it easier," replied the neighbor, "and he seemed mighty interested when I told that scout you had the very corn he was looking for!"

"Did you tell 'em that?" and a pleased smile played over Toby's features as he asked the question.

With this parting admonition, big Bill Morgan climbed upon his truck, the day's work ended, and rumbled away homeward, leaving Toby Hicks to ruminant on what he had said at seed corn prices. If they want it on them terms let 'em have it; and remember I have plenty of feed corn at feed corn prices. There's some considerable difference and its all in your favor. You can fight the weeds with the plow and the hoe, you can fight grasshoppers with poison bran mash and you can fight the weevils with 'high life', and win in all three, but you got to fight the speculators with your wits."

With this parting admonition, big
Bill Morgan climbed upon his truck,
the day's work ended, and rumbled
away homeward, leaving Toby Hicks
to ruminant on what he had said
at seed corn prices. If they want
it on them terms let 'em have it;

"I'll be darned," muttered Toby to himself, "if that aint so; now that I've made and got my crop in I've got to watch out or the speculators will get it! Dad burn a speculator, anyhow."

TOO MUCH LAW.

In these days, when you hear so much about "law and order," did you ever stop to think that it would be physically impossible to enforce a very large part of the country's laws?

We are being lawed to death. It is a mania—a disease—that manifests in legislatures, in congresses, in civic and social associations, organizations, corporations, and quite every human activity. Always there must be law to control and hedge and limit the individual.

It is said that there are over 2,000,000 laws in force in the United States today. Legislatures and congresses are adding to these at the rate of thousands every year. It is now almost impossible for a human being to take a step in any direction in this country that a restrictive law of one kind or another does not confront him, says the Birmingham Post.

So great and wide have become the ramifications of the written statutes that it is wholly impossible for anyone to know the law or to be a law-abiding citizen.

Reaction against this sort of thing is apparent on every hand.
Out of it has grown a spirit of lawlessness that shames the very centers of what we have believed to be our best and oldest civilization—shames us all.

It is not in the nature of men to accept gracefully and cheerfully those grinding enactments that bear directly and hard on all the little, intimate things and thoughts of their daily existence. They are resentful today and every day, and they will continue to be resentful until the craze for lawmaking is checked and the human being is allowed to be human.

Too much law is worse than no law, for too much law is tyranny.
History tells us that tyranny always fails—Alabama Times.

The Cotton States Protective League, Charles B. Metcalfe of San Antonio, Texas, and W. B. Yeary, of Dallas, Texas, are out in an address to the people of the South urging them to hold the cotton crop for 30 cents a pound. There is no doubt but what the crop is worth all that and then some. It has cost nearly every reader of FARMING more than to produce this year's crop. If all could and would hold it for its value its value could be secured. But there is the rub. Can they? And would they if they could?

The lifetime records of a low-producing cow may be likened to a daily course of the winter's sun, which rises late, remains low, lasts only a little while, then disappears.
The lifetime record of a high producing cow may be likened to the daily course of the summer sun, which rises early, climbs to a great height, remains long, descends slowly, and seems reluctant to disappear—Holstein Breeder and Dairyman.

If we are too weak to take charge of our own morality, we shall not be strong enough to take charge of our liberty. If we cannot govern ourselves, if we cannot observe the law, nothing remains but to have one else govern us, to have the law enforced against us and to step down from the honorable abiding place of freedom to the ignominious abode of servitude.—President Coolidge.

FARMING interests you or you would not be reading it. Won't you do both him and us a favor by interesting your neighbor in reading it?

A charming wife of a French diplomat had never quite thoroughly mastered the English language.

She was urging an American officer to attend a dinner, the invitation to which he had already declined. The lady insisted that he must go, but the young officer said that he had burned his bridges behind him.

"Zat will be alright," she exclaimed, "I will lend you a pair of my husband's."—The Yellow Strand.

A CARD.

The undersigned, who have been in your midst as Sales Manager for the Hondo Mercantile Co., during the past few weeks, have a few parting words to say to the people of Hondo and Medina County.

In the first place we wish to thank the public and the many satisfied shoppers who put faith in our advertisements and profited thereby.

Next we wish to thank the owners and managers of the Hondo Mercantile Co., for their splendid cooperation and their extreme liberality in granting us the privilege of cutting prices as we wished.

Last, but not least, we want to thank the splendid Sales force for their untiring efforts, extra time and patience, also for their earnest desire and endeavors to please all customers.

In conclusion, will say that your town and County are blessed with a splendid citizenship—that the possibilities of both town and country are unlimited and we sincerely hope that within the next few months all memories of the drouth and its attendant hardships will have been erased. We are very happy to have been among you and wish each and every one good health, happiness and prosperity for the future.

F. J. MAIER.

F. J. WALCH.

N. B. We almost forgot to thank the man who is so often forgotten (when it comes to thanks or gifts)—and that is the newspaper man. Mr. Davis put up one of the best page ads that we have been able to secure anywhere and we have had some very complimentary comments on it from San Antonio advertising men and others.

We would suggest that all merchants make more use of "Printer's Ink," and we feel that every citizen of Medina County should be a subscriber to the Anvil Herald and Fletcher's Farming.

The Better Buick is a Man-sized Motor Car

People appreciate a smart-driving, easily-handled, but full-sized, man-sized car. The Better Buick, for instance.

Each Buick model seats its capacity of full-grown people—in relaxed ease—without cramped legs or necks. Tall people, especially, enjoy its extra head-room and leg-room.

American men and women are above the average stature. And a smaller car than Buick is apt to be tight-fitting, low-ceilinged, crowded!

Drop in and try the ample, arm-chair comfort of a car that is right in size. Bring some of your six-footer friends. You will find another big reason why Buick is so widely considered a better motor car—another reason why there are a million and more enthusiastic Buick owners.

Or telephone, and we will send a Better Buick to your home or office for you to try.

Firestone

Safety and Mileage For All Roads and Seasons

OPERATORS of large truck, bus and cab fleets must have rugged, long-mileage tires if they are to make money. That is why so many of them have standardized on Firestone. Experienced race drivers, almost to a man, equip with Firestone. Car owners can have this same extra safety and economy—by using Gum-Dipped Cords.

Gum-Dipping, the Firestone extra process, impregnates and insulates every fiber of every cord with rubber—insures greater safety and comfort over rough and sandy roads—builds extra strength and flexibility into the sidewalls—an exclusive feature that adds thousands of miles to the life of a tire.

Come in—let us save you money by equipping your car with a set of these wonderful tires—prices are still low.
